NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Meet Twice, Then Wed.

Brookton, Dec. 25.—A unique courtship culminated in St. Paul's Episcopal church last night when Emma S. Taylor of this city was married to Arthur C. Lord of Norway, by the Rev. David B. Matthews. The bride and groom had seen each other but twice since they met last October. Uncle Sam played the role of Cupid through his postoffice department.

Mrs. Alice M. Marston has returned home from Fredericksburg, Va., where she went to spend the winter with her brother, E. B. Whitehouse. She was called home by the death of her brother, Hon. F. E. Whitehouse.

The little sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Murdock entertained their grandmother, Mrs. John Murdock, Christmas to dinner and a Christmas tree, where Santa had left a good number of things to make glad the hearts of the little folk, and also their elders.

We have a nice photograph of Max Cutting, a twelve-year-old Andover boy, who recently shot a big buck in the wilds of his native town. We understand that Max is the son of an Andover village blacksmith. The young fellow in the picture seems to be pretty well pleased with himself and the deer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cullinan have moved to their new house on Orchard street this week. This bungalow is built of concrete, is furnace heated, electric lighted, has spring water in the house and has all the modern improvements, and has all the furniture, such as buffet, dressing cases and the like are "built in" the house. There is a kitchen cabinet, a vegetable cellar and other conveniences to make housekeeping a pleasure.

Ernest C. Wardwell of Oxted has been trapping coon and skunk this fall. We were shown a photograph of a catch of two weeks. There were eleven coon skins and thirteen skunk skins and the picture also shows Mr. Wardwell and his dog Pedro. He refused an offer of $50 for the fur. The value of the skunk skins depends on the amount of white shown in the back, that is, the less white there is in the back the more cash the skins will bring.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Jordan celebrated Christmas with a family gathering. At dinner, on each plate was placed a pretty Christmas card with a sentiment appropriate for the occasion and suitable for a souvenir. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Cummings, Ruth and Stevie, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Beck, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Littlefield, South Paris, Roy F. Jordan now employed at Portland, Me., S. E. Cummings and Alton Whitehead. Nineteen persons present.

Granville Burns, son of E. L. Burns, who lives in Richville, Oxford, called on us recently and showed us some photographs of his recent hunting trip to Echo Camp, South Paris.

Lake. There were five in the party consisting of Julius Fuller and his son, E. S. Fuller, E. L. Burns and two sons, Granville and William. They hunted in the vicinity of the camp and were able to get eight deer, two of which were exceptionally fine heads. Their camp is situated a mile this side of South Paris and is noted for the game in its vicinity. The camp was originally owned by Orrin Dyke of Hanover, who sold it some years ago.

Phineas and Charlie Barnes were two as happy boys as they were in town Christmas morning. Early in the morning they went to the home of Etta Noyes on Bridge street and offered their services as messengers for the W. C. T. U. to help distribute the Christmas gifts which were to be given to those less fortunate than they.

They worked untill late in the evening and there with gifts for this one and that one until, when they had finished, eighteen different families had been visited by the boys, and it was with pleasure that the little fellows carried the gifts and a cheery "Merry Christmas" to others on Christmas morning.

The Christmas tree and entertainment at the Congregational church last Friday evening was attended by a good number and a fine time enjoyed. The cantata was good and nicely given. Program:

Duet.....Howard and Eddie Chick
Recitation, What will Santa Claus do for me?.....Phineas Barnes
Recitation.....Marion Barnes
Singing.....Marion Farmer and Alice Barnes
Recitation.....John Barnes
Cantata, The Gypsies Christmas
Characters:

Arthur Bartlett

THE NORWAY ADVERTISER

(OXFORD COUNTY, ME.)

DECEMBER 31, 1909, NORWAY, MAINE.

VOLUME XL.

Mrs. Susan D. Crockett.

Mrs. Susan D. Crockett died suddenly on Sunday, Dec. 26, at the home of her son, Dr. Eugene Crockett, on Marlborough street, Boston, Mass. She had been in her usual health and on Christmas day played with her grandchildren. Mrs. Crockett was a daughter of the late Dr. Willard C. George and Mrs. Ruth (Damon) George of Norway, and her husband was mostly passed in Norway village. She married a son of Norway, Dr. Fred E. Crockett. They lived for a time in Fairfield, and also in Norway, and then located at West Newton, Mass., where her husband practiced medicine till his death. She made many visits to the old home town of Norway, and was last here in August of the present year.

Beside her son and his wife she is survived by three young grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Hosea P. Aldrich of Somerville, Mass.; two nephews, Willard C. Aldrich of Port Deposit, Md., and Guy B. Aldrich of Brooklyn, N. Y.; one niece, Mrs. D. Cromet Clark of South Eliot; and one cousin, Mrs. Emma Mann of Norway.

The funeral was held at the home of her son on Tuesday afternoon. She will later be laid beside her husband in Pine Grove cemetery, Norway.

Wedding Reception.

A wedding reception was given to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. G. Loveloy, at their home in Millettsville at the farmhouse known as the Nathan W. Millett house.

There were one hundred and twenty-five guests or more present and they thoroughly enjoyed the occasion. An orchestra of four pieces furnished music and those who wished danced till well into the "wee small hours." Besides there were games and cards. A fine supper was served and many presents were received by the happy couple.

Mr. Jackson is one of the prominent young business farmers of Norway. They receive the best wishes of many friends for a life filled with blessings of all kinds.

Veranda Club Notes.

Veranda club held their promenade at G. A. R. hall, Thursday evening, Dec. 23d, when a very enjoyable evening was spent dancing to the music furnished by Mr. Young and Mr. Stearns. Mr. and Mrs. Lamb were unable to play on account of the illness of Mrs. Lamb. Proceeds for charity.

Lee Templeton and sister, Belva French, of Mechanic Falls were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Porter, Christmas. Miss French is working in the shoe factory and is living at Mr. Porter's.

Rev. William B. Tuthill, who has just resigned a pastorate at Leominster, Mass., and accepted a call to the Woodford Congregational church in the Deerfield District of Portland, preached at the Norway Center church one summer while taking his course in the theological seminary. He married Lillian Hazelton, who at that time was making her home in Norway with her brother, Dr. George W. Hazelton, now of Southville, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuthill have several children. He will begin his new pastorate on Jan. 1st.

The Christmas concert at the Universalist church, Sunday afternoon, was very successful and in spite of the storm there was a very good attendance. The children all took their parts pleasingly. The music was all fine especially the songs by the choir, and the solo by Mrs. Verne Whitman with violin obligato.

The church was prettily decorated with green festoons centered at the chancel, and extending to the walls. A picture of the Christ-child adorned the organ and on either side of which were the words, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

A grand good time was enjoyed Friday evening by the Sunday school of the Universalist church. Supper, consisting of chicken sandwiches, puffs and cake, cocoa and fruits, was served. The entertainment consisted of songs and recitations by the children and remarks by the pastor, who wanted all to remember that Christmas is truly kept and Christ is a joy to be making others happy and by giving rather than receiving. He declared that Santa Claus is a reality, not in the way that store or wood is real but in the way that love and kindness are real. Santa Claus is real only he is a spirit in the heart, the spirit of Christ, giving. After this Santa Claus appeared and after a few remarks to the children he proceeded to unload the well laden trees and also gave presents from the large sack which he brought with him, much to the amusement of the young folks.

Weak Kidneys Make Weak Bodies.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of Norway People.

As one weak link weakens a chain, so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric poison circulating in the blood.

Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ills. No need to take the statement of someone living far away as evidence.

Here's a case right in this locality. Mrs. George Thayer, Pleasant St., South Paris, Me., says: "I first used Doan's Kidney Pills a short time ago and I can say that they helped me a great deal. My kidneys troubled me for quite a while and I was so favorably impressed with what I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills that I procured a box."

I am well pleased with the results of their use and consequently have no hesitation in recommending them to other kidney sufferers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

Wonderlust.

The bird songs of the summer time cheer not my heart to-day. While I dwell my mind on other things, I wonder at the way.

Where once I rode o'er grassy plains I wonder at the way.

Rolling in my cozy parlor, I wonder at the way.

Beneath the stars my bed, I wonder at the way.

The rhythm of my love's voice, As always in the lead, I wonder at the way.

Then drink long life to the bounding heart Of the cowboy of the West, I wonder at the way.

Three times three for my pony brave, I wonder at the way.

And don't forget my four strand pet, I wonder at the way.

Now cinch your saddles tight, my boys; I wonder at the way.

Reef up the birch coral! I wonder at the way.

At dawn's first glimmer of time to wick I wonder at the way.

At old Bill Winkler's, I wonder at the way.

Now mind your brand, you know you can, I wonder at the way.

And throw your rope with heart and hope, I wonder at the way.

It's just a song and dance, I wonder at the way.

Then drink long life to the bounding heart Of the cowboy of the West; I wonder at the way.

Three rousin' cheers for 'em 'n' me, I wonder at the way.

And three times three for my pony brave, I wonder at the way.

Who knows the roundup biz, I wonder at the way.

And don't forget my four strand pet, I wonder at the way.

Oh! hard twist rope, Gee Whizz! I wonder at the way.

A Trip in the West.

Editor ADVERTISER, as you will see I am now in Southern California and while rustating amongst the Orange groves and flowers, I will try and write a few short sketches of my last summer vacation trips.

On Friday morning, April 30th, I landed at the train for the S. D. for a 600 mile ride to the west and north-west, at Wessington, S. D. I visited over Sunday with my nephew, S. F. Andrews, a son of the Rev. Owen Andrews who was born in Lovell. On Monday morning I again took the train and continued my journey. At Pierre, the state capital we cross the Missouri river. Pierre and Chamberlain, the railroads halted more than 20 years ago, and have been waiting all these years for the opening up of the 200,000 square miles of Indian lands, that lay between the Missouri river and the Black Hills section of South Dakota. That barrier was removed about three years ago, and now this vast tract of land is being taken up by the land pioneers.

From Pierre to Rapid City is about 200 miles mostly rolling prairie, with a rich soil and but little natural timber. At Chadron, Neb., I stayed over night and the next morning proceeded to Douglas, Wyo., the western end of my trip.

Douglas is a beautiful city of about 2,000 population located on the north bank of one of the forks of the Platte river. Here my friends met me, and the next morning took me to their home ranch 20 miles away. Here I found my cousin, Esther Andrews (nee Cooper), who has served three terms in the Wyoming legislature of which he was Speaker of the House one term, and his wife, live near them and is secretary and manager of a large stock ranch on which they live.

This ranch consists of some 20,000 acres of deeded and leased land and they have a fine herd of between four and five hundred head of thoroughbred Hereford cattle mostly cows and heifers. Three miles away is a creek Mr. and Mrs. James Wilcox have a fine cattle ranch. Mrs. Wilcox is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper. Three miles away upon another creek James Andrews and his wife are living upon another ranch. Here I found my cousin, Esther Andrews (nee Cooper), who has served three terms in the Wyoming legislature of which he was Speaker of the House one term, and his wife, live near them and is secretary and manager of a large stock ranch on which they live.

This is an ideal stock country for those who control the streams of water. The bottom lands are irrigated, and produce fine crops of grain and alfalfa hay, while the adjacent hills afford rich pasturage all the year round. To many, this ranch life would seem a lonely life, but to Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, a long and happy married life has brought them many blessings and now in the sunset of their lives, surrounded by their children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, they are awaiting with hope and patience, the Master's call.

Wyoming is big in acreage, but small in population. Its great wealth is in its mines and stock raising. I was told that it stands first in the production of wool and sheep, of any state in the Union. Most of the country that I saw was sheep country. The sheep are kept in bands of about 3,000 each, and a man with covered wagon has charge of them and when the feed gets short in one locality, changes to another, always having in view a convenient water hole or creek to quench the thirst of his bleating herd.

Back of the Cooper ranch are the foot hills which lead back to the mountains, and I think about 20 miles away stands Chyane Peak which raises its lofty peak to a height of about 10,000 feet. The foot hills contain many fine groves of hard pine timber. In company with Lyman Cooper, I visited a saw mill in the hills and while there, dined on a substantial meal, a part of which consisted of mountain trout, some of them of the rainbow species.

The high altitude, the pine timber and the pure air, made this part of Wyoming an ideal health country. I spent about two weeks there and enjoyed my visit very much indeed. If my epistle escapes the Editor's waste basket, my next will be about my experience in the famous Black Hills country of South Dakota and my return to Harley, my starting point.

Yours Truly,
JOSEPH ANDREWS.

CASCO.

Rally day will be observed at the church, Jan. 2. Frank Chute and wife, are rejoicing over the birth of a son. A number from Spurr's Corner, attended the Xmas entertainment at the church.

Greenville Mayberry came from Portland, to spend Xmas with his son, Robert Mayberry. Robert Brackett and family, came from Portland to spend Xmas with their relatives in this place. Mrs. Nancy Morrow was a recipient of a Xmas basket on Xmas day, given by her many friends of Casco.

NORTH WATERFORD.

Could Not Stop Sneezing. Gladys Grover was visiting at Summer Grove, Sunday, and was taken sneezing and couldn't stop. The physician was called and wanted her to go to the hospital at once but as he stopped the sneezing was in hopes she would be all right and went away. She was taken to the home of Paris Paige and that night began sneezing again, so the doctor stayed with her most of the night. Monday Dr. B. F. Bradbury of Norway was sent for and performed an operation but it seems it did no good for at last reports she was sneezing again. Mrs. Amelia Grover came from Massachusetts, Monday night, to care for her.

Two Deaths.

Mrs. Parris Paige was called to Rumford, Friday, by the death of her youngest brother, Daniel A. Lebrock. He slipped on the ice and fell, striking on the back of his head, which burst the spine, and causing him to have a spinal trouble that caused his death. His remains were brought to his sister's, Mrs. Lizzie Jewett's of Biddeford, and the funeral took place there Sunday. He was laid to rest in the cemetery at Biddeford near his mother. He leaves a wife, two children, an aged father, two brothers and five sisters to mourn their loss.

Edna, wife of Harry Brown, passed away Thursday evening. She has been sick with typhoid fever for a long time and had been very sick, but for a few days had seemed to be on the gain until nearly a week before she died, when she grew suddenly worse and for a few days it didn't seem she could live an hour. The funeral was on Xmas day and was very sad for the community. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. She left a nice home and everything heart could wish for. She leaves a husband, two sons, father, mother and one sister beside many friends to mourn their loss.

The teachers are on the sick list so there will be no school for a week. There is to be an installation and supper of the Woman's Relief Corps, Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nason came home Friday night. They have been to Bangor to attend the Grange.

There was no Xmas tree at the church as planned on account of the death of Mrs. Harry Brown. The teachers had a small tree for the school children at the home of Mrs. Myra Patrick, one of the teachers, and had the Xmas exercises there.

Rice Neighborhood.

Emma McAllister spent a few days with her parents Xmas week.

John McAllister and family spent Xmas day with Bert Brown of Norway.

Will Fiske and Fred Hazelton are seen quite often driving two-year-old colts, which they are breaking.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hazelton attended the fair and dance at Albany given by the Grangers in their new hall last week Tuesday.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Charles S. Hamlin has delivered a quantity of pine to Watson's mill, for box timber.

Edward Emerson has been hauling a large quantity of birch blocks to the spool mill in Albany.

Leon York has completed a job of cutting timber for Charles Rice, and commenced another for George Stevens.

Mrs. Augusta Monroe has closed her house for the winter and is visiting temporarily with a sister, in Springfield, Mass.

Thomas Hardy and wife are spending the winter with the family of Mrs. Emma Murphy, a sister of Mrs. Hardy, in Green Bay, Wis.

Harry Haynes is training his four yoke of white faced steers in the way of usefulness, by hauling white birch timber to Watson's mill, to be sawed into spool stock.

The storm which came on Sunday and continued into the night, was blown away on Monday and it is impossible to estimate how deep it might have been on a level. Probably not less than six or eight inches.

Alice Hamlin, who is taking a course of post graduate study at Emerson School of Oratory in Boston, is spending the Christmas holidays at her parental home. Miss Hamlin was preceptor and teacher of special studies at Kent's Hill Seminary, the last two years.

The Christmas tree festival of the South Parish Sunday school, on Friday evening, 24 inst, was a delightful affair, and gave old and young much pleasure. The program of exercises was under direction of pastor-superintendent Sias.

Children belonging to the Sunday school, the village public school and the Mutiny district school, participated by recitations as follows: Annie Abbott, Hazel York, Erlon Abbott, Raymond Saunders, Elinor Saunders, Gladys Adams, Rita Merrill, Margaret Sias, Orpha Sias, Ed Hapgood and Alice Kuehnel. The superintendent made an appropriate address, alluding to the festivals of the ancient people, held in observance of the winter solstice and the return of the sun from its southern limit. The identity of this period with the birth time of Jesus caused its adoption by the early Christians in token of that event, from which originated the Christmas celebration of later times.

BRYANT'S FORD.

Ben Billings is spending the holidays in New York.

Andrew Hill has been very feeble for several days, much more so than usual.

Leona M. Felt was home from Rumford over Sunday, returning Monday night by stage.

Mrs. Mason of South Paris was the guest of Mrs. Granville Abbott over Sunday.

Mrs. Cullen Abbott has visited at her sister's, Mrs. Granville Abbott's, a few days.

Ned I. Swan, Edwin J. Mann and Archie D. Felt went to Bolster's Mills, Thursday, to a Masonic meeting.

Christmas exercises passed off very pleasantly, Saturday night. Santa Claus kindly remembered every one.

Mrs. Estella C. Ford and Ethel Ford, also Mrs. A. Fitzroy Chase of Kent's Hill were guests of Emily J. Felt.

Missionary Davis is calling on friends for a few days. He is kept more than busy in the Evangelist work. He has dates fixed for special meetings four months ahead.

Francis Chase of Portland and Alden Chase of U. of M. were at home last week to attend the funeral of their grandmother, Mrs. Alden Chase. Alden remained at home for several days. Francis returned Sunday.

FRYEBURG.

No steam roller this winter. No hold-ups reported this week.

Leavitt says there are 74 maiden ladies in town.

Who said Peary wasn't a native of this town.

Wm. Irish is in town a few days enjoying a fishing trip.

Several strange faces were seen on the street at Christmas time.

Clem Ward is thinking of taking a trip to Scotland in the near future.

All stores had a fine display of Christmas goods and all report a good trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Towle have been with their son Clem and his wife the past week.

The Board of Trade are contemplating having a swell supper some time in January.

The lights seen in the sky last week were supposed to be a large air ship flying over.

Business is on the increase. It looks as though we might have sidewalks in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Clarence McKen's uncle of York have been visiting at the McKen residence.

Dr. Densmore, who has been stopping in town the past two months, returned to the Soldier's home at Togus last week.

Haley Neighborhood.

Our sidewalks are getting blocked up for the first time this year.

Jennie and Marion Haley spent the day at the village, recently.

Dana Haley of Jackson, N. H., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Almon Haley, recently.

George Hutchins of Wolfeboro, N. H., is visiting his sister, Mrs. Lowe S. Haley.

Mr. and Mrs. Amariah Sands contemplate going to Salem, Mass., to live with their son, Ernest. They have already sold nearly all their stock, consisting of hens, cows and pigs.

Joe Cushman is hauling pulp wood for C. E. Fox. Walter Lord and Almon Haley are cutting wood for George Weston.

Fred and Lowe Haley are cutting wood for E. P. Weston, also doing some logging.

Del Stevens and family of Lovell, have recently moved into Mrs. Annie Marston's house, and are boarding the men that work in the woods. They are doing extensive business, logging for Hobson and Twombly.

Died, Dec. 5th, Mrs. Caroline (Sands) Walker, aged eighty-five years, seven months and 24 days. She was the daughter of John and Sally (Steele) Sands, and the last surviving member of a family of eleven children. In 1854 she was married to Lorenzo Walker who has lived with her until his death, three years ago. She leaves a large number of nieces and nephews, also grandnieces and grandnephews to mourn their loss. She was beloved by all who knew her.

ALBANY.

Christmas Observance.

Mary Dresser had an Xmas tree for her scholars, Saturday afternoon, and invited in the parents. The exercises consisted of readings, recitations and singing by the scholars, after which the presents were distributed. Every child had a present. The tree was very nicely arranged and did much credit to the teacher. A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by parents and scholars.

There were several family trees in town, one especially we wish to mention as we were invited and were present. It was at the house of W. H. McNally. The presents were numerous and some very nice. The tree was very prettily arranged and the evening was very happily spent.

There was a family tree at Amos L. Bean's and one at Wallace E. Cummings'. Guy Cummings came home from Paris and spent Xmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Cummings.

George Fernald of Bethel has been in this vicinity testing cows.

Frank Bean of Oxford was up to his farm in Albany after hay, last week.

Plenty of snow for good sledding on the main roads. A lot of the teamsters are improving it.

O. W. H. Jenkins and wife of North Norway were visiting at Hunt's Corner, Tuesday, Dec. 21st.

Guy Cummings came home from South Paris to spend Christmas with his parents and returned Sunday.

The shooting match, ball and oyster supper is to come off, Friday, Jan. 7, and will be held in the new Grange Hall at Hunt's Corner.

The people of this town were saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. Harry Brown of North Waterford. She was formerly an Albany lady, daughter of Austin Hutchinson.

The selection did not grant the petition to lay out the road asked for, and it is proposed to petition to the next Board of Selectmen at the County Commissioners in the early spring.

HANOVER.

C. M. Richardson of Boston, is spending the holidays with Mrs. Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Powers attended the State Grange Convention at Bangor, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Howe are visiting their daughter, Mrs. W. B. Rand, at Curtis Corner.

Mildred Dyer went to Rangeley, Monday, where she is to teach the winter term of school.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Dyer, of Oxford, spent the past week with Mrs. Dyer's mother, Mrs. Allen Richardson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Smith, G. L. Smith, George Ed. Smith and Georgia Abbott took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Elliott, at Rumford Point, Christmas day.

All our students from Gould's Academy, Jessie Howe from West Bethel, Marion Dyer from Rumford and Eva Abbott from Portland, were at home over Christmas.

LYNCHVILLE.

School closed in this district last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cuptill and Mr. and Mrs. Everett were at Silas McKen's, Sunday.

Alonzo Adams was at Burnham McKen's to see his mother, Katherine Adams, Saturday.

This community was saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. Henry Browne. Mrs. Browne was sick for several weeks.

Weak Throat--Weak Lungs

Cold after cold; cough after cough! Troubled with this taking-cold habit? Better break it up. We have great confidence in Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for this work. No medicine like it for weak throats and weak lungs. Ask your doctor for his opinion. He knows all about it. His approval is valuable. Follow his advice at all times. No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Always keep a good laxative in the house. Take a dose when your cold first comes on. What is the best laxative for this? Ayer's Pills. Ask your doctor his opinion. Let him decide.

Mary Abbott Holt is spending the week with her mother and brother, Herbert Holt. Mr. Holt, Mrs. E. J. Holt, Mary Abbott Holt and Clara Connor spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Frost.

"Public Library," a gold-lettered overhead sign hitched to a tree owned by Wm. C. Leavitt and the town to show where to find the library. The lettering is all right but the hanging is something ridiculous. It is a disgrace to the tree, sidewalk and town.

The Monday after Christmas the stores showed the results of the Christmas trade. Most of them have a decidedly bare appearance compared with the large stock of two weeks ago. There are plenty of new holiday goods for New Year's trade, and notice the "mark downs" in the advertising columns.

Lovell I. Churchill of Paris has bought a pair of matched Hereford calves of H. Arthur Robbins. They were the blue ribbon winners at the last cattle fair last fall. They are good looking and nicely matched. Lovell may be a dozen years old, is a son of Almon Churchill, and he felt pretty proud driving the calves through the villages. He had the blue ribbon in his pocket.

Holden-Hayden.

We have received the wedding notice of Miss Durell Hayden, a former Norway girl, who is the granddaughter of Mrs. Clara Hayden of Norway and the daughter of Alma Pendexter and Charles Hayden.

At First Baptist church at 7 o'clock the marriage of Miss Durell Hayden, daughter of Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden, and niece of Hugh Pendexter, to Jared Howard Holden, was solemnized by Rev. James T. Dickinson, D. D., officiating.

The church was attractively decorated with palms and the bride wore a becoming traveling gown, with hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and maiden fern. She was attended by Emily O'Keefe, as maid of honor, and the best man was Montgomery Van Vleet.

After the ceremony a dinner was served at the Hotel Rochester with the decorations in place. The table was covered with pink roses and lighted by candles with dainty shades in the same coloring. Mrs. Holden has been a successful teacher of music and manual training in the Industrial School for several years and a great favorite with the children. Many gifts from her small students were showered upon the bride as well as from the managers of the institution and her friends and relatives.

Mrs. Holden comes from Revolution, a very ancient and is a descendant of the Haydens of Cambridge and the Sanborns of Haverhill. She has also been successful in literary work and is an elocutionist and possesses a fine contralto voice.

Mr. Holden is one of the engineering staff of the Stromberg-Carlson Company, and has proven himself a very capable and valuable man to the firm with which he is connected. Among a number of pre-nuptial entertainments given for the bride were the following: "Theater party by Mrs. Hugh Pendexter; shower by Mrs. John Stewart and members of the bride's Sunday School class; linen shower by Emily O'Keefe. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Holden will be at home at 108 Meigs street.

Columbus Richardson.

Columbus Richardson died in Norway, Saturday, Dec. 25th, of pneumonia after a short illness.

Mr. Richardson was born in Greenwood Oct. 20th, 1834, but had lived in Norway the most of his life. He attended school in Greenwood. He was a farmer and a shoemaker. He was a soldier and served in Company H, 23d Maine, from Sept. 23, 1862, to July 15, 1863, when the regiment was mustered out. He was a member of Harry Russell Post, No. 54, G. A. R., and was recently elected Commander of the Post for the ensuing year.

In politics Mr. Richardson was a Republican and in religious associations a Universalist.

Oct. 19th, 1862, he married Helen Shackley and they had one son, F. H. S. Richardson, who is a shoemaker and lives in Auburn. He married for his second wife, Lizzie E. Libby, Sept. 30, 1877, who survives him and another son, Arthur L. Richardson, who is a shoemaker and lives in Norway.

The funeral was from the Universalist church, Monday, Dec. 27th, at 2 o'clock p. m., his pastor, Rev. M. C. Ward being the attending clergyman who spoke words of comfort and consolation to the mourning relatives and friends. There were floral offerings that mutely spoke of esteem for the departed one.

Busy Week at Central Park.

Yule tide found the Central Park manager, and the good time commenced Friday evening, with moonlight skating to good music, while motion pictures were projected upon the screen while the merry whirl was in progress. On Saturday afternoon the rink was opened and a skating carnival given, to which a large number embraced the opportunity of enjoying their favorite sport by sunlight.

In the evening, a special motion picture and illustrated song program was offered, and this drew out a good holiday crowd. Three reels of excellent subjects were shown. The features were, "School of Gymnastics," a film of action showing a training ship's work put through a course of stunts; "The Pretty Guardian," a setting where a white robed spectre figured conspicuously in a love affair; "The Red Domino," a realistic episode in the affairs of Paris, where foreign politics and the oft attending evils invaded the home of a high rank; "For Daddy's Sake," a touching home picture where a young child and violin proved the salvation of all concerned; "Foolhead Wishes to be a Millionaire," was a gem bubbling over with ludicrous situations simply because an empty headed youth was given a sour lemon by a female both physically and mentally his superior, and his many attempts at self destruction and failures to meet the required end, kept the spectators in an uproar and kept the gossamer of the foolhead would try next.

Mrs. Leon Yeaton rendered satisfaction to the illustrated songs, "Blue Feather" and "Sometime, Somewhere."

Special decorations, undoubtedly the work of Mrs. Yeaton, Mrs. Bassett and Lillian York, were noticeable. Each of the twenty incandescent border lights were inclosed in a green and red Christmas tree, Japanese parasols were suspended from the ceiling, and heavy maroon colored draperies embellished with glistening rosettes hung gracefully about the peacocks, the whole making a pretty effect. Dancing was billed to follow the pictures but so many desired to skate that the managers gave the change and an enjoyable time on the little wheels followed until a late hour.

The usual roller skating party was given Monday with the Casino orchestra of five pieces in attendance. Many candidates just receiving their initiation were on the floor (oftentimes) but enjoyed the bumps even if not gracefully presented. There seems to be an influence which holds the beginner to the job in spite of falls and back-breaking contortions.

Friday evening another moonlight skating carnival is the drawing card, while pictures will be shown. Saturday evening feature pictures are promised and another opportunity will be given to "roll the rollers."

For the Sunday School.

Long years ago, we are told, people were visited with punishment in the flesh for their sins.

How many today stop to think that perhaps for our misdeeds we may be chastened by sickness or misfortune as these more fortunately placed people were punished for sin and disobedience?

It often seems as if this were the case when we see people doing wrong, living ungodly lives, carelessly and selfishly.

When affliction comes how many ask themselves: "How have I displeased God?" or "Is Heaven's wrath kindled against me?"

We would do well to pause occasionally in the race, when we come to a doubtful turn in the road, and ask ourselves: "Am I right? Not right, in the sense of worldly wisdom, but right according to Divine judgment were He here to direct our footsteps, leading all the way by His right hand.

To love one another is one of Heaven's direct commands. And how can we love one another truly without trying to know and help those whom we love and trying always to make our love for our fellow-beings manifest by truly good and kindly thoughts and deeds toward them?

A person, for illustration, may live near or distant he is just as truly our neighbor as if he lived next door so long as his aim is to do right and he is true to his convictions.

There is another command that accords with the one already stated, which is:

Be not forgetful to entertain strangers for some have entertained angels unaware.

This is a command too often lost sight of in this selfish generation, and vainly their own interests and their own happiness, regardless of the prodigal waste of good fellowship rightfully belonging to others as well.

There are those who have around them many relatives and friends and many of them cannot stop to think of the loneliness and want of companionship of those less favored, and selfishly pass them by as if they were icebergs.

On the contrary, the slightest ones are loving their neighbor as themselves. Reader, suppose God were displeased at this manifestation of disobedience, and for your spiritual good, "visited His wrath" upon such doings by taking from your nearest and dearest for such selfishness, or caused friends to turn against you?

Would you pause at this act of Providence and believe then that you were doing wrong in not being friendly and companionable with those who desired friendship?

Oh friends, beware! "It were better that a millstone were hanged about his neck" than that he should offend any that believe in His name.

Let us accept people for what they are, with courtesy and good will.

Many persons are good and true, though not demonstrative in manner, nor very aggressive. But, it is truly said: "Still waters run deepest;" so do not allow yourself to think that such are necessarily uninteresting nor unwilling to do their part, socially or otherwise, when once they are made to feel that you are friendly and desire their friendship in return.

Those who are strong in numbers should make advance in good will toward the weaker numbers.

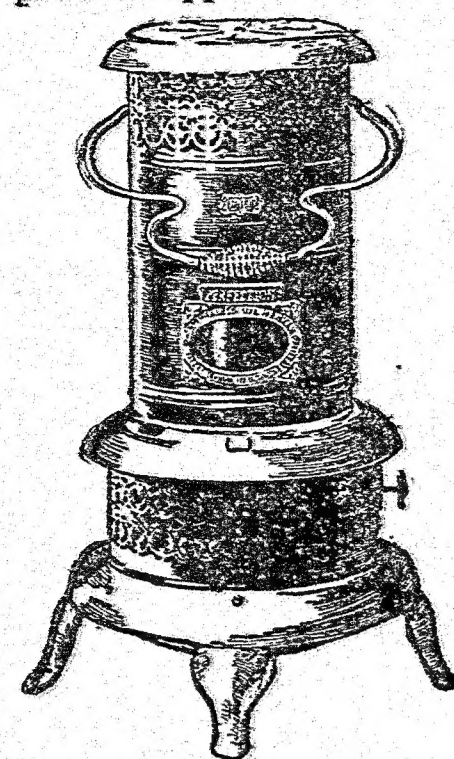

This attitude that we are ever above another equally good is mostly of feminine origin, not so common in men. And dare any resist the pleading of Him who has said: "I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion."

Let us strive to be friendly toward one another, not snobbish and ill-bred in manner. Be good and true. Bear also in mind, a person may be a millionaire and not necessarily more a gentleman than if he had less cash and more brain. Do not follow after evil pomp and vain glory, all of which perish with the using.

Smokeless

Until science discovered a way to construct the Automatic Smokeless Device, and make it completely dependable, all oil heaters had one common great fault—smoke.

With the advent of the Automatic Smokeless Device, and its practical application to the

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device) the smoke problem was successfully solved.

The Perfection Oil Heater is the only heater equipped with this which insures a steady, full-glowing heat, with the wick turned up as high as it will go, without a shred of smoke. Reverse the motion, turn the wick down—there's no odor. The smokeless device automatically locks and prevents the upward movement of the wick beyond the proper exposure. That is the secret. This splendid result gives leadership to the Perfection.

You may now have all the heat you want—when you want it—and where you want it—without the annoyance of smoke or odor. Brass front holds 4 quarts of oil, which permits a glowing heat for 9 hours. Brass wick tube—damper top—cool handle. Cleaned in a minute. The Perfection is beautifully finished in Nickel or Japan.

47th Anniversary.

My mother at this time thought of my father's portrait, and afraid of its being injured she determined to get it herself and bring it into the cellar. Without telling any one of her intention, she left the cellar and went up into the parlor. The portrait was hanging just over a sofa on which she stood to take in down. She had just reached the door opposite the sofa when a shell came crashing through the wall, demolishing the sofa on which she had so recently stood, as well as many other articles of furniture. She reached the cellar white and trembling, but with the portrait unhurt in her arms.

At one o'clock the cannonading suddenly ceased and for one hour we were at liberty to go above and see the damage that had been done. My mother's first efforts were directed toward getting a lunch, of which we were all sorely in need. With the aid of one of the frightened servants she succeeded in getting a fire and having some coffee made, and with this, together with some bread and ham, we had a plentiful repast.

What a scene met our eyes! Our pretty garden was strewn with cannon balls and pieces of broken shells, limbs knocked off the trees and the grape arbor a perfect wreck. The house had been damaged considerably, several large holes torn through it, both in front and back.

Gen. Lee read an order saying that the women and children must leave town, as he would destroy it with hot shot that night sooner than let it fall into the hands of the enemy who were crossing the river rapidly on pontoon bridges. They urged my mother to take her children and fly at once from the town.

The wildest confusion now reigned, the servants wincing their hands and declaring they couldn't go without their "chairs," which they managed to get somehow, and put upon their heads, but the gentlemen insisted so that we had only time to save our lives, that they would not even let my mother go back into the house to get her purse or a single valuable. So we started out, just as we were, my wrapping, I remember, was an old ironing blanket, with a large hole burnt in the middle. I never did find out whether aunt B.—ever got her clothes on, for she stalked ahead of us wrapped in a pure white counterpane, a tall, ghastly looking figure.

We left town by way of the old "plank road," batteries of Confederates on both sides. The ground was rough and broken up by the tramping soldiers and the heavy wagons and artillery that had passed it, so that it was difficult and tiresome to walk, and the sun was quite warm by this time and the snow was melting rapidly, the mud was simply indescribable.

I think the only vehicle we encountered was a dilapidated wagon, to which an old colored man had hitched a decrepit, but vicious looking mule, hoping to drive off from the wars, but lo! upon the steepest and most exposed place of a very high hill, that mule had halted, planting his forefeet firmly in the ground, whilst with his hind-legs he was displaying the usual agility of the mule species of kicking the spatterboard. No coaxing, cajoling, beating or "cussing" would induce him to budge one inch. The exasperated driver, after many efforts, exclaimed "to the Lord, Cas' biano, you thick head brute, if it t'waint for de valeration uv yer harness I'd let you get kilt right heab." Suddenly his countenance brightened and he said, "but I gwine to move yer now, 'cause I sees some corn coming!" A man with a bag of corn was passing just then and "Cas'bianca's" attention directed toward it by the old driver, he unstiffened his forelegs and started after it in a brisk trot, dragging the broken wagon and his irate master, who rained unmerciful blows on his hard-cured back.

All of our servants, except Caline, who was only seven years old, had taken some other direction. When we got about two miles from town we overtook many other refugees; some were camping by the way, and others pressing on, some to country houses which were hospitably thrown open to wanderers from home, and others to "Salem church," about three miles from "Fredericksburg," where there was a large encampment. Our destination was a house not far from "Salem church," which we now call the "Refugee House." Exhausted we reached the house by twilight, found there some friends who had been there some weeks, and who kindly took us into their room and gave us every attention.

And so great was our relief to feel that we had escaped from the horror of that day, that such small matters as having no milk and no coffee, our principal diet corn bread, bacon and sorghum, seemed only slight troubles.

The next day we walked up to the church. All was bustle and confusion. I suppose there were several hundred refugees there. Some were cooking out side in genuine gypsy fashion, and those who were infirm or sick were trying to get some rest in the cold, bare church. The leafless trees, through which the winter wind sobbed mournfully, the scattered groups seen through the smoke of numerous fires, and the road, upon which passed constantly back and forth ambulances and wagons full of wounded soldiers, presented a gloomy and sad-denying spectacle.

To our great astonishment we beheld Aunt B. the queen of the group, giving orders right and left, her liveliness and self-importance in no degree abated, and being waited upon by all.

"We remained at the 'Refugee House' for three weeks, my mother in the meantime making efforts to get into town; each day she would walk almost to the outskirts, wading through mud knee deep, only to be refused by the sentries who could let no one pass."

"The day after the battle my mother with Miss C., did succeed in reaching town and my brother and myself made up our minds we would go too, so followed at a respectful distance to keep from being sent back. We had to cross the battlefield, a horrible sight for our young eyes. My brother picked up a bayonet, lying by a dead man, which he afterwards found a very novel use for. Dead bodies piled up in every direction, the houses sacked and pillaged, and everything in the most horrible state. The Federals had done as much harm to the furniture and house as they could. One room was piled high, more than half-way to the ceiling with feathers from the beds ripped up. Every mirror was run through with a bayonet, and of the doors were locked, and the furniture nearly a broken up.

My mother went back to the "Refugee House" that night and after several days there we went back to our old home. My mother, with no assistance but what we children could give, succeeded in cleaning up the house and we took up our abode in one room, as we could barely find furniture for that.

A stove was found and fortunately before the shelling my mother had gotten a good supply of wood, which was heard a low tap on the window and my mother asking who was there found it was Beverly Brooks, a colored man, who had just heard she was in town and came with a loaf of bread and a pitcher of milk, and every night during the rest of that dreadful winter did he tap on the window and hand in a pitcher of milk and a loaf of bread. He had stayed in town during the shelling and had managed to keep his cow and all of his belongings. We three children would sit around the stove every night and toast our bread on the old bayonet brother had found on the battlefield. My mother, through the kindness of friends and through her own industry, managed to find food during the winter, but each week did we stay in bed all day while she washed and ironed our clothes with her own hands, as she had no money to buy with, nor were there any stores in Fredericksburg from which she could have bought.

After some weeks she succeeded in getting us more clothes, which was certainly more comfortable for us all. In the spring, my mother, through the kindness of a friend, was enabled to go to Danville, Virginia, where we remained until after the war was over. To my neat homes and pleasant gardens mark the spot of that awful carnage and the story of the battle will soon be a matter of history only, as those who took part in the great contest and survived it are rapidly being numbered with the dead.
